

Team-Building maritime!

Welcome aboard...

... to our team-building event on the sailing yacht FIDELITY! An experience your team will talk about for a long time and benefit from for even longer. In general, sailing is already considered to be one of the most effective team building actions. But as a two-master, the Fidelity demands an additional level of teamwork and coordination. Moreover, it is the exclusive yacht charm that promotes the emotionally driven learning processes and consolidates them more sustainably.

Companies depend on strong teams that communicate clearly and can also optimise themselves as a result. While the team members on board the Fidelity find themselves in an unfamiliar environment with new tasks - such as navigation, sail trim, ship management - they train various skills that are directly related to their work requirements: Communicating in unfamiliar, complex environments; Decision-making under pressure; Leadership vs. Classification; Acting as a unit, etc.

Team Building Procedure

Sailing experience is not required. All team members take turns at all tasks on the boat. One by one, each participant gets a chance to steer at the helm, trim the sails, navigate the course, etc. The team members learn to communicate, delegate and work together effectively. Our skipper guides the team, ensures safety and encourages teamwork. Optimal is one week, minimum three days, in order to achieve sustainable effects for a maximum of 9 team members. Home port of the Fidelity is one of the most beautiful and interesting cities in Italy - Trieste. In principle, however, your event can also start in Venice or in Croatia or from any other Mediterranean port of your choice. Please contact us for further information and to configure your event individually.
